IN NEW QUARTERS.

Old Reliable Brooklyn Savings Bank to Begin Business in Phoenix Block Today.

This (Monday) morning the Brooklyn Savings bank will open for business in its new quarters in the Phoenix block, in the rooms recently vacated by the Danielson Trust company. The coming of the bank to Danielson commensurates an expectation of many years and a change that has taken a great deal of effort upon the part of those interested to bring about. Since October, 1913, when the bank moved from Brooklyn Center, where it has been located since its incorporation in 1872, it has been located in a building on South Main street, West Side, which is just within the limits of the town of Brooklyn. Its business increased with unprecedented rapidity from the very first days it opened its doors. Its quarters and the deposits have very substantially increased.

With the transfer of the bank to Danielson, where it will continue to do business under its old name, the borough gets one of the best known savings institutions in eastern Connecticut, out, one of the old reliable type, and

JUDGE WARNER PLEASED.

At Success of Bill For State Farm For Inebriates.

There is special interest here in the favorable report of the committee on humane institutions of the legislature on the bill providing an appropriation of $50,000 for the establishment of a state farm for inebriates. This is a measure that has been steadily urged by Judge Edgar M. Warner of this city for a number of years—since 1890—and the bill probably will become law. Judge Warner believes that the establishment of a farm for inebriates will be the means of working wonderful reforms among the habitual drunkards. The plan is to send them to the farm to serve indeterminate sentences, its coming increases Danielson's prestige as a financial center.

The bank's deposits are in excess of a million and the assets, exclusive of assets that increase that sum very substantially. This means that the total of money deposited in Danielson's four banks has been increased by considerably over $2,000,000 since the first of last November.

The bank officials are confident that Danielson's old but new financial institution will now realize even greater benefits than it has realized at heretofore. The change from Brooklyn Center was made in the fall of 1913. The bank will now be very accessible for all who wish to transact business with it, the handicap of distance from steam and trolley roads having been wholly removed.

J. Arthur Atwood of Wauregan is president of the bank, F. A. Jacobs vice president and Clarence A. Potter treasurer.

The bank will move into its new quarters before they are fully fitted as intended, but the vaults used by the other banks and the Deane office quarters and other essentials to the proper safeguarding of money and securities are in perfect condition.

BLANKET POLICY.—Likely to Be Taken Out By County Commissioners to Protect Employees.

The county commissioners have given considerable attention of late to the matter of protecting employees of the county with compensation insurance and it is possible that a blanket policy covering all such will be taken out.

It is understood that the matter has been taken up with representatives of insurance companies and that tentative forms of policies will be submitted to the commissioners for inspection.

It has been something of a proposition to ascertain to what extent the county should go in providing such protection as it is felt is needed in the way of compensation insurance, and one of the questions of special interest is whether or not such a policy should cover prisoners who are let out from the county house of correction.

This and other points will receive the proper legal consideration before any definite action is taken.
